Reflections in the water,
Like shadows in my mind,
Speak to me
Of passing days and nights

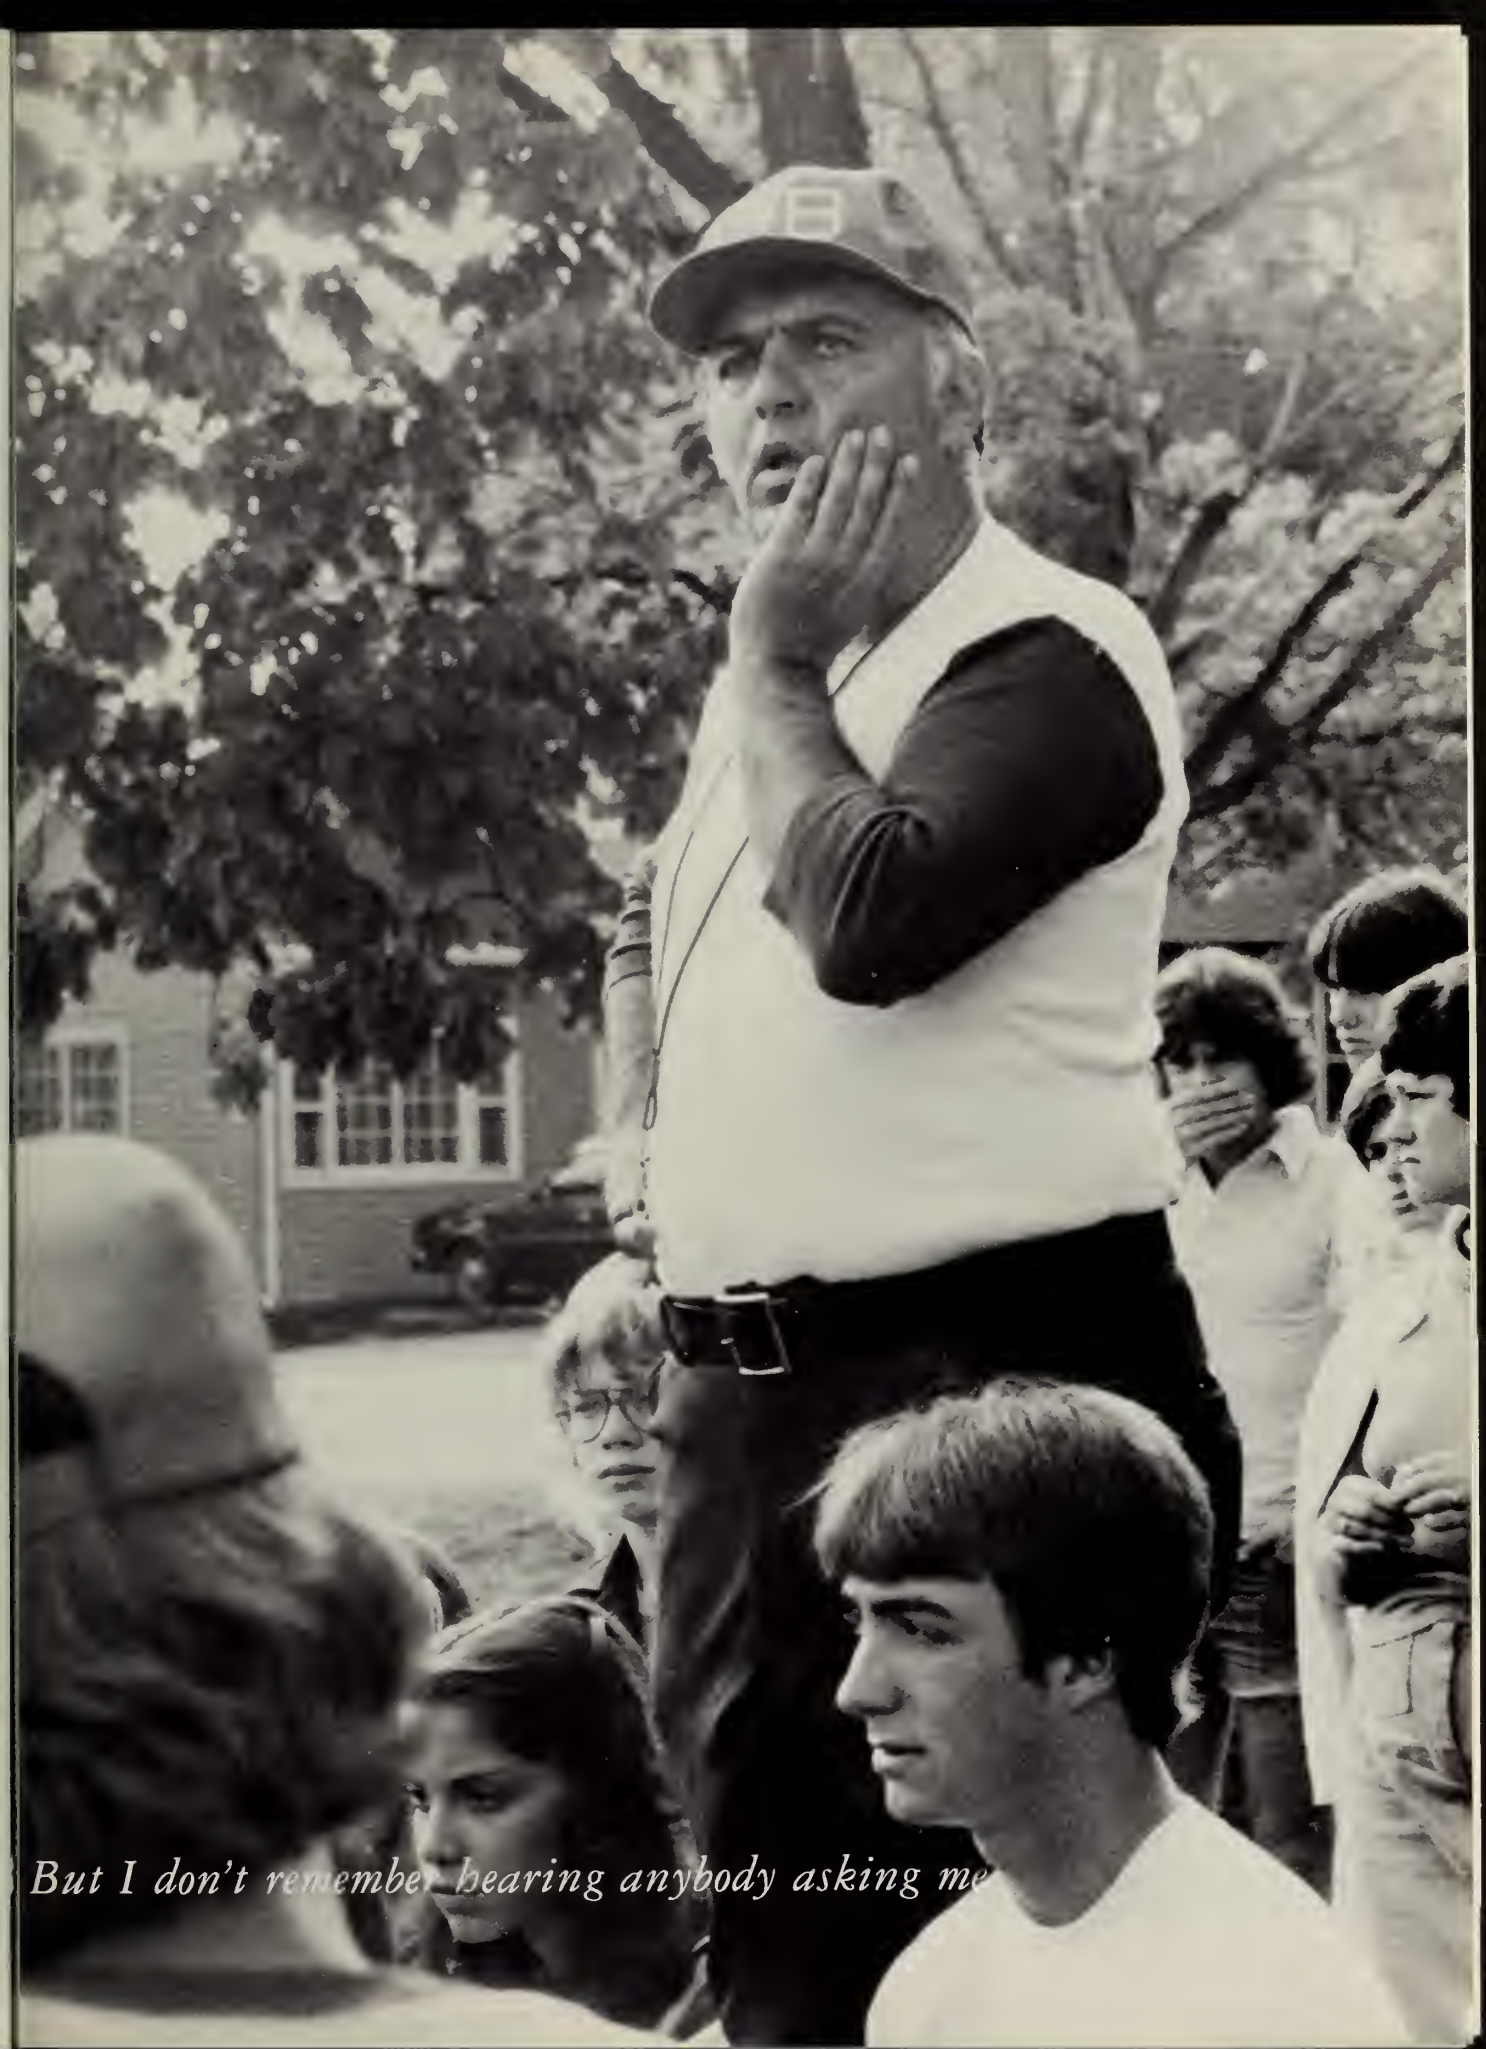
. . . and passing time.

OAKDALE MASS.
POST OFFICE

The falling leaves
Are whispering.
Winter's on its way.
I close my eyes
Remembering
The warmth of yesterday.

It seems a shame
To see September
Swallowed by the wind.
And more than that
It's oh so sad
To see the summer end.

And though the changing colors
Are a lovely thing to see,
If it were mine to make a change
I think I'd let it be.



But I don't remember hearing anybody asking me

RIVER RD

The Class of 1980
Dedicates This Issue of the Lion's Roar
To the Memory of

NICHOLAS CECCHINI

"Oh, Chips, I'm so glad you are what you are . . . Schoolmastering's so different, so important, don't you think? To be influencing those who are going to grow up and matter to the world . . ."

–James Hilton, in "Good-bye, Mr. Chips"

Nicholas Cecchini was a teacher of distinction and an extraordinary man. For twenty years, until his retirement last June, he was a vital part of West Boylston High School: a soft-spoken and unfailingly patient voice of reason, an understanding friend whose daily example inspired deep respect, admiration and affection in those around him.

Like Mr. Chips, the subject of James Hilton's touching little novel about the life and death of a beloved schoolmaster, Mr. Cecchini "had quiet and gentle manners." He was a kindly, compassionate, uncommonly decent human being whose views, though sometimes old-fashioned, never seemed out of date because they were "so thoroughly honest; and because — because his eyes were brown and he looked charming when he smiled."

Like Mr. Chips, he taught and often quoted Latin — a supposedly "dead" language that he somehow made vibrant, a springboard for modern lessons. "Student motivation comes from the youngsters' seeing a teacher's respect for his subject," he once said. "A teacher must also have an understanding of the young and a willingness to listen to them . . . If everything is left in the classroom, it is not worthwhile. A subject should leave the classroom."

From the classics he revered, and particularly by personal example, he imparted to class after class of Latin and Spanish students a high regard for words, for knowledge, and especially for their fellow man. He was, in every sense, a humanist. His warmth and humility moved us. It made us better people. To us he was St. Nick, and not only at Christmas.

If we considered him virtue personified, he was nevertheless approachable. He had a smile and an encouraging word for everyone, and always, ALWAYS time to listen. There was sometimes something hushed and sacred, almost church-like, about his classroom, but he also had a wonderful sense of humor. Youthful mischief was no sin in those thoroughly honest brown eyes.

"A little levity is permitted," our Mr. Chips assured several generations of West Boylston students, recalling a favored story from Latin I which demonstrated that "Roger Bacon, underneath his academic garb, was a bit of a rogue." In Mr. Cecchini's classroom, we developed what James Hilton called "the sudden love of boys for a man who was kind without being soft, who understood them well enough, but not too much, and whose private happiness linked them with their own."

He was a humble man, utterly without pretense. Even after earning his doctorate from Boston College in 1965, he preferred to be called "Mr. Cecchini" rather than "Dr." Pupils called him "Dominus" — roughly the Latin equivalent of "Sir," but spoken with less formality than fondness. To everyone else — the cafeteria workers, for instance, whom he regularly helped wash pots and pans if he had a few spare minutes — he was simply "Nick."

He hardly ever had to be a disciplinarian, because misbehavior in his class might have been interpreted as personal disrespect, and that was unthinkable. And even students who had little interest in conjugating ancient verbs tried to live up to his motto — "Scholares Latini sunt semper parati . . . Latin scholars are always prepared" — because they did not want to disappoint Dominus Cecchini.

Like the fictional Mr. Chips, the real-life Nicholas Cecchini was part of his school and its daily life, taking an interest in every student, every subject, every sport and extracurricular activity. And like Mr. Chips, he also enjoyed having students, past and present, drop by to visit him at home. He lived in Clinton, in a section called "The Acre," which he often reminded us was a neighborhood where everyone knew and helped each other.

Mr. Cecchini found great joy in life — in teaching, in working the soil, in playing the organ and accordion, in tinkering with machinery, in driving the trucks that fascinated him. Several years ago he took up jogging; able to go only a few yards on the track behind the school at first, he worked at it until he was able to run miles every day. He was in many ways an inspiration, a remarkable man.

Nicholas Cecchini retired quietly after the school year that ended in June, 1979, with characteristic lack of fanfare. Just like Mr. Chips: "At his own request there were no more farewells or presentations . . . "

In early September came the disturbing word that he was in Clinton Hospital, undergoing tests. It seemed somehow ironic that he should fall ill right at the start of the first school year in two decades of which he was not an integral part.

Then on October twelfth came the stunning news that Nicholas Cecchini had died at the age of forty-nine. For this, none of his Latin scholars could possibly be prepared. But perhaps we should remember him by recalling what the fictional Mr. Chips said on his deathbed. Overhearing a bystander whisper that it was a pity he never had children, Chips replied: "But I have, you know . . . I have . . . Thousands of 'em . . . "

Nicholas Cecchini had thousands of children, too, and we shall never forget him. Requiescat, Dominus. Good-bye, Mr. Chips.

1979 PLAY COMPETITION

Class of 1981

The curtain went up for the staging of the Annual Play Competition on April 6, 1979. The classes had worked long and hard in hopes of winning the hundred dollar prize for their class treasuries. The Class of 1982, the competition winners, presented the play "Genius, Jr.," a comedy of conflicts. The Class of 1981 presented "No Time for Skirts," a spoof on high school social affairs, and the Class of 1980, "Great Smokies," a comedy of southern hillbillies. The Class of 1980 placed second in the competition.

Class of 1982

"ANYTHING GOES"

"Anything Goes" played for two consecutive nights last spring at the West Boylston High School auditorium. The cast included Laura Berg as Reno Sweeney, John Tsagronis as Billy Crocker, Grant Sanders, Debra Borci, Eric Lantz, and Deborah Cooney. Mr. Steven White directed the entire production. He was assisted by Jacqueline Gemma, student director. Mr. John Leslie capably handled the music and choreography. This second annual musical production was enjoyed by all!

HOMECOMING '79

West Boylston High School's Fourth Annual Homecoming Week began on September 24, 1979. Each day there was a competitive interclass activity including a "House of Cards" contest, a "Beggar-man Thief" contest, and a "Sesame Street" scavenger hunt. The Junior Class was the top scorer. Friday marked the traditional homecoming pep rally. The football players led the cheers, while the "Pillow People" cheerleaders played football! Saturday was a completely victorious sports day beginning with the field hockey game, followed by a cross country meet, and capped with a memorable football game versus David Prouty High School. Our evening's dance, "Time in a Bottle", featured Joshua Tree. The evening was highlighted by the 1978 queen's, Lynne Bjorklund, crowning of Francine Henault as this year's queen. Francine's court included Danielle Barton, Kathleen Mahoney, Roberta Mercurio, Irene Derosches, Cathy Buonomo, Joan Lepore, and Lynne Bjorklund. A special thanks to Mrs. Bositis, the homecoming advisor.

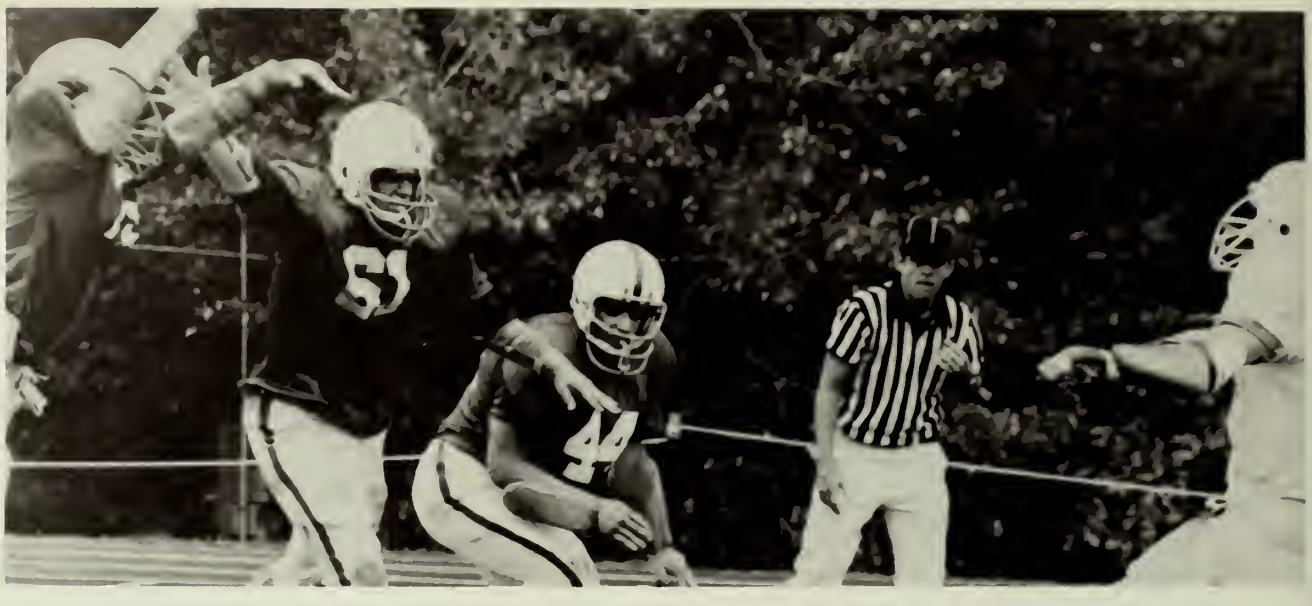
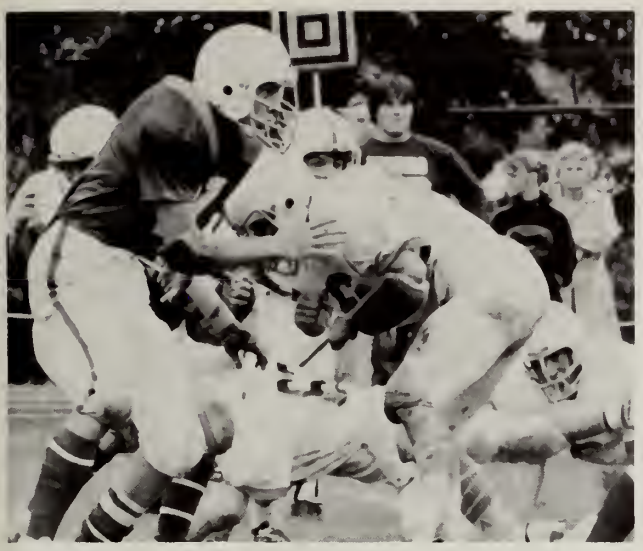
SPORTS





FOOTBALL

The 1979 Lions were one of the toughest football teams in West Boylston's football history, compiling a 6-3-1 record in a very competitive league. Fourteen seniors were the team leaders. Todd Rotti received an honorable mention for the Worcester Telegram and Gazette All Star team, and running back Ed Nowak was one of the highest individual scorers in the area. Highlight of the season: a victory over Grafton in the annual Thanksgiving Day game.

The 1979 Varsity Football Team. Head coach, Greg Roche; assistants, Richard Priestley and Joe Garofoli.

VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY

The 1979 FIELD HOCKEY team attained a record of four wins, seven losses, and one tie.

JUNIOR VARSITY FIELD HOCKEY

With five experienced seniors and several juniors on the VARSITY SOCCER TEAM, the West Boylston booters looked forward to a winning season during the fall of 1979. The very disappointing 0-14 record for the team suggests further emphasis could be given to this sport in West Boylston.

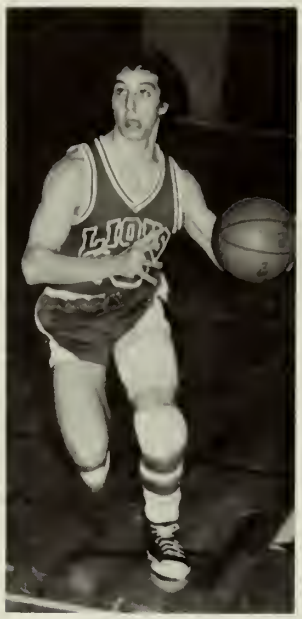
VARSITY and JUNIOR VARSITY SOCCER

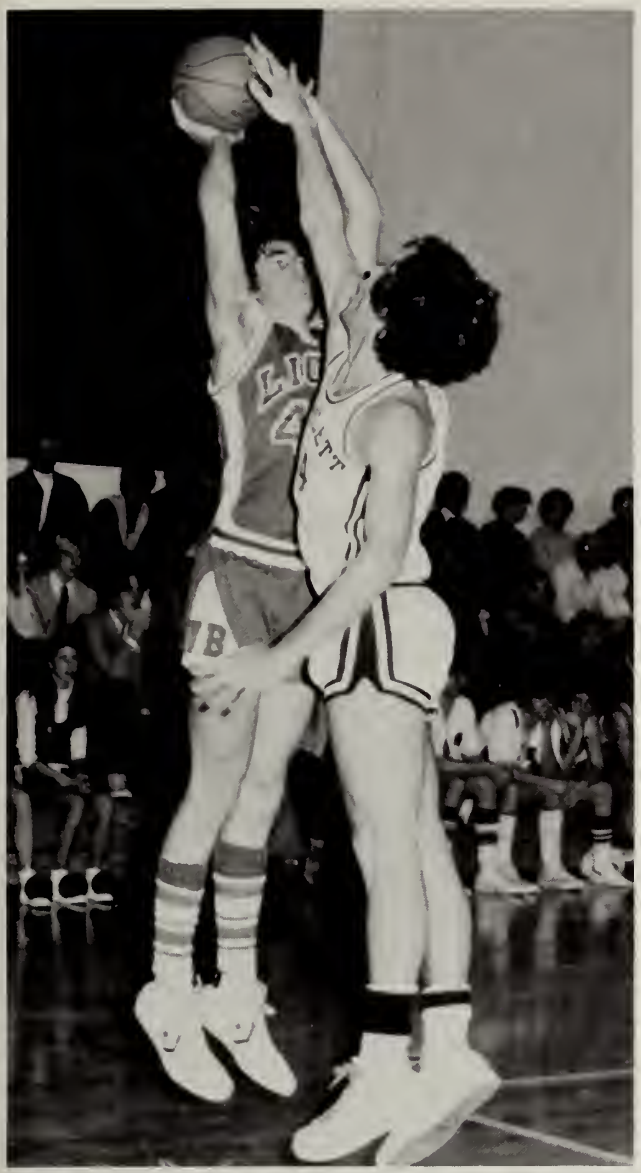
BOYS' CROSS COUNTRY

The CROSS COUNTRY TEAM compiled an outstanding 13-2 record during the Fall if of 1979. The team was lead by a senior, Richard Tomczyk, and was coached by Mr. Justin McGrath.

Debbie Cooney and Mary Sweetman were the senior members of a young GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY TEAM which attained an 11-7 record in 1979.

GIRLS' CROSS COUNTRY





BOYS VARSITY BASKETBALL

The 1979-80 BOYS VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM was a young and inexperienced team, with only two seniors who had previous varsity experience. Yet under the coaching of Jim Diamantopoulos, the cagers played a respectable brand of basketball while rebuilding around a nucleus of strong sophomores.

Mr. Henry F. Hiller, Jr.

March 5, 1980, marked Henry F. Hiller Day in West Boylston. The special day was proclaimed to honor Mr. Hiller, who has announced that he will retire from the School Committee at the end of his present term. Many events were held throughout the day to commemorate the more than twenty years of dedicated service Mr. Hiller has contributed to the children and citizens of the town of West Boylston.

REFLECTIONS ON OUR FACULTY

Again this year, the Lion's Roar wishes to stress the other-than-academic aspects of The West Boylston High School Faculty. On this page, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Seth Hudak, above, is a commissioned officer in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve. At top right we see Mr. Carleton J. O'Connor, High School Principal, who is extremely active in the field of athletics in the State of Massachusetts and who really enjoys dancing. At the right is Mr. John Begley, High School Assistant Principal, with a collection of booty obtained from various students under various circumstances. Mr. Begley is an avid reader and gardener.

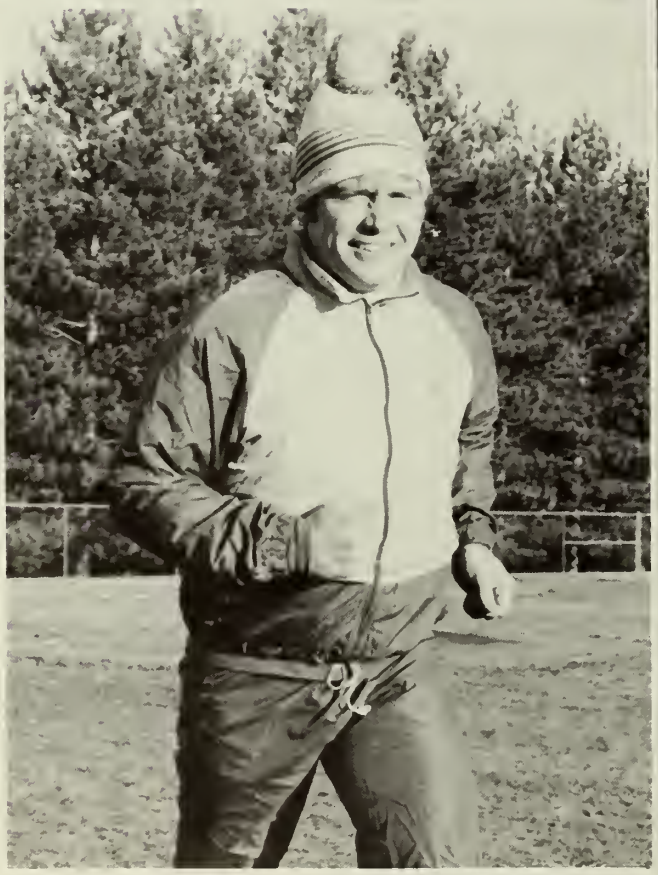
Clockwise, beginning immediately below: Mr. William Sullivan, of the Social Studies Department, a golfer, reader, Cape Codder, and supposedly a baseball fan, though he supports the New York Yankees. Mrs. Sharron Hubbard, English, who manages her family of four as well as her teaching career; Mrs. Hubbard pursues cooking as a hobby, and jogging. Mr. Steven White, English, SCUBA diver, woodsman, drama coach, antiquer. Miss Sandra Lawrence, of the Business Department, a camper and a tennis player.

Clockwise, beginning directly below: Mr. Ronald Ekblom, Physical Education, Athletic Director, handball player, galloping gourmet; Mr. Donald Mentzer, Science Department, Driver Education, a fisherman, active in youth activities outside of the school; Mrs. Ruth Bositis, English, Latin, a golfer and knitter; Mr. Kevin Smith, of the Special Education Department, an athletics participant and coach; Mrs. Anita Volungis, Library, skier, golfer, speed skater, hockey fan.

Clockwise, beginning directly below: Mr. Gerald Silven, Industrial and Graphic Arts, Driver Education, a woodsman and trucker, stock market student; Mrs. Marsha Hudson, Language Department, a skier, cyclist, photographer, and camper; Mr. Philip Donohue, Business Department, a golfer, gardener, and Member of the Select Board of the Town of Paxton, Massachusetts; Mr. Jeffrey Eaton, Science Department, a realtor, private businessman, athlete, and billiards player.



Directly below: Mrs. Linda Parker, Special Education, an excellent baker and plant potter; Mr. Gregory Roche, Social Studies, football coach, moped rider.

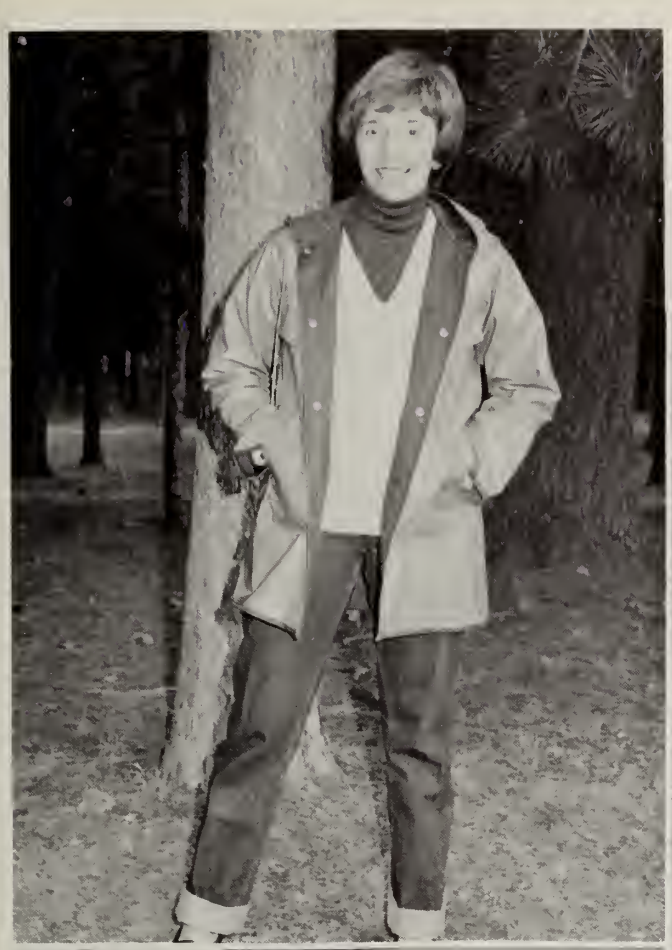
Column directly above, from top down: Miss Angelina Scopelliti, Language Department, world traveler, scholar of French culture; Mr. Joseph Turberg, Mathematics, computer addict; Mr. Lawrence McGrail, Science Department, electronics expert, sailor.



Opposite page, inside column, top to bottom: Mr. Joseph Garofoli, English, Assistant Athletic Director, sports enthusiast; Mr. Edward Traver, English, photographer, stained glass artist, professional tennis umpire. This page, clockwise, beginning directly below: Mrs. Grace Leslie, Physical Educaiton, archer, cyclist, Thespian; Mr. Robert Monroe, Guidance, marksman, photographer, musician; Mr. Edward Anderson, Social Studies, photographer, student of and expert on American transportation systems, particularly the MTA of Boston: Mrs. Elaine Gegel, Guidance, goumet cook, Cape Codder, home economics authority.

Directly below, Mr. Herbert Maynard, Music Department, tennis coach, bridge player, skiier. Below, to the right, Emily Boosahda, Art Department, artist and sculptress.

CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

CHEF'S CLUB

Good food. Good fun. Good mistakes. A dinner for the faculty? Good grief! Advisor: Mrs. Gruszka.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

National Honor Society membership symbolizes scholarship, service, character, and leadership. Members of the Society have attained superior standings in both their studies and their extracurricular activities.

During the 1979-80 school year, the Society sponsored the Spring Projects Fair and exchange student exchange programs with other schools.

THE VARSITY CLUB

The '79 — '80 Walking Wounded

RADIO CLUB

Library Club work is gratifying to its members because students actually contribute to the operation of an essential school service. It isn't just a simulation; it's for real.

LIBRARY CLUB

A-V CLUB

GOVERNMENT CLUB

Government Club activities include discussions and public debates about controversial issues, appearances by distinguished guest speakers, and mock elections. Members gain a better understanding of current events.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

ART CLUB

GRAPHIC ARTS CLUB

GRAPHIC ARTS, a two year program designed to expose the interested student to printing, silk-screening, and photography. The emphasis here is on creativity and fun.

BUSINESS CLUB

MUSIC MAKERS

The West Boylston High School music program takes many forms. Full time band, about thirty strong, meets five times each week. The forty part time band members meet three times weekly. The Marching Band, those brave souls who perform in the rain of September, the snow of November, and the heat of Memorial Day, is formed from both the full time and part time band. The stage band is a competitive concert band whose members must audition to join. These four groups are the basis of the instrumental program at the high school.

FULL TIME BAND

PART TIME BAND

THE STAGE BAND, the "most swinginest" band of them all, plays everything from Dixieland to Rock. In 1979: a second place finish in the district competitions.

At right: STAGE BAND
Below: Informal WIND ENSEMBLE
At bottom of page: CHORUS

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council represents the student body in three areas: governing school operation, making policy, and co-ordinating activities. Among the activities of this year's Council were a fund-raising pitch party, the school pictures program, the Winter Carnival, the Red Cross blood drive, and Spree Day. The operation of the School Store is also under the direction of Student Council members. Proceeds from fund-raisers are used to benefit the Student Council Scholarship Program. Others funds are dispersed to buy special items for the use of the general student body. The West Boylston Student Council has been very active in state and national student government programs.

PEP CLUB

WORK STUDY

Seniors who plan to apply for full time employment immediately after graduation have the opportunity to participate in the Work Study Program. This innovative scheduling approach allows members of the Senior Class the opportunity to gain work experience before graduation. Participants in this program leave school each day at 12:45 to fill jobs in the community. Much of their academic work is accomplished on a "contract" basis with their teachers.

DRAMA CLUB

LITERARY MAGAZINE

The SKI CLUB had everything going for it — good spirit, a good fund-raiser, good equipment, good people — except for one thing: snow. The 1979-80 winter, at press time (January 20th) was the second most snowless winter in history. Worcester Airport had officially recorded less than ten inches this season, and more than seven of that had fallen in one day — October 10th!
